Harris of the State Guard: Brigadier General Thomas A. Hassis of Hanni-hal, having assembled the State troops at Paris to the number of two or thron thousand, was preparing to muster them into the service of the State, and for other purposes. To guard against surprises, as every officer of experience and pru-dence will, General Harris had established his picket guards around the quiet city of Paris, to notify him and the troops of the approach of any enemy. To Millers, Produce Merchants, and enemy.

Now it so beppened that the military company organized some time since at the village of Philadelphia, in this county, had, under the efficient training of Capt. Robert E. Dunn, attained a high degree of discipline and soldierly beering. This company, feeling called upon by notives which we highly respect, to respond to the cull of the Governor, after this preparation, hambsonely uniformed and ermed with the muskels purchased by

Dunn and his company arrived; but what was their astonishment to find the place deserted, their friends fled, and the General are concent bus. They had routed the whole camp. This was Captain Dunn's first great victory, and a bloodless one at that. Mutual explanations followed among the company and citizens. Aleccences.

A baltalien of infantry, consisting of Compnaies 1 and 11, Fourth Infantry, and Compony E, Ninth Infantry, 11. S. A., arrived in San Francisco June 20th, on the steamer Cortez. These troops are from the district of Gregon, and are under onlers to report to Gon. Siminer, commanding the department of the police. The number of treeps is 1.8, and the others accompanying them are Captain II. D. Wallen, Fourth Infantry, commanding: Captain II. L. lied Jones, Lourth Lafan ry; First Lieutenant, II II. TRADING IN CONTRABAND GOODS,-We learn from the Cincinnati Gazette of vesterday that a day or twe ago Collector Carson, of that city espied on one of the river packets a trunk which looked as though it might contain "eid and comfort." It was marked Madison, Ind. Assistant Collector Pollock, in an interview with the Captain of the beat, teld him to put said frunk ashor at Madison, Ind., no matter where its owner might desire it to go. This was the last heard of the matter until Saturday last, when the Collec tor was informed by telegraph that just before the boat reached Madison the ewner of the trank be came suddenly animated with a desire to proceed as far as Louisville. The Captain, however, refused to take the suspicious looking article heyond Madison, and, sending it on shore at that place, caused it to be searched. It was found to confain military goods, trimmings, &c .enough to hedizen quite a squad of chivalry. I was seized and will probably be confiscated At the Ohio and Mississippi depot at Cincinnat on Salurday night, Mr. Curson saw a couple of persons whose facial appearances betrayed temements not in keeping with those indicated by the extreme retundity of their bodies. The collector being somewhat of a physiclogist and a tolerably chrowd man withal, determined to investigate this opparent "freak in nature" and arresting the obese twain, caused them to be searched, whereupon it was discovered that each of them were in addition to his ordinary clething a garment consisting of two military belie. Ir the possession of one a guitar hex was discover ed, and as its owner didn't look like a mar who had music in his soul, it was epened by the official dignitaries and found to contain three

MR. AND MIS. DICKERS RECONCILED. -- A Lundon correspondent savs:

Let us trust thet we chall hear no more of in-compatibility. The fact is that Mrs. Dickens is a plain, matter of fact, sensible woman, without any literary testes, and who, possibly, has not read the whole of her husband's novels. It seems to me that this is just the sort of a wife that a literateur should have, easing that libey could not come in one another's way; but Dicken thought otherwise, and eees, I suppose, in the happy rela-tion that exists between Sir Edward and Lady Bulwer, a proof of the bappiness which must arise when an author and an authoress are united. But Dickens is getting older, and therefore wiser, and sees that he will be most happy in the society of the mother of his family.

PROPOSED EXPEDITION TO SOUTH CAROLINA Lale in the fall, when the warm weather moderatee, and the region becomes healthy for Northern troops, South Carolina must be invaded unless the rebele previously submit and lay down their arms. And the invasion must not be by Chirleston, which would involve too great a sacrince of life—but a far better port, seventy-five miles further south, though not so well known. We refer to Port Royal harbor, fifty miles from Savenneh. It is a safe and commodious port, and the shallowest part of the channel to it has about twenty feet of water. This was originally the chief port of South Carolina; but it was superseded by Cherleston on account of the latter having superior water communication to the Interior by the Ashley and Cooper rivers. The railroad, however, is a more rapid mode of transit than water, and by it fort Royal is destined to be restored to its original position. A new railroad, tapping the Augusta and Charleston Railroad et Branchville, would connect for Royal with all the railroads in the State. The district in the vicinity is very fertile, and only railroad communication ie wanting lo enable this place ruccessfully to compete with, and even to surpass both Charleston and Savannah. It abounds with elaves—in fact they are far more numerous than the wbites.

By lending a force of twenty-tive thousard men at Port Royal the whole State could be reduced, and Charleston city could be taken in the rear and ceptured as it was once before by the British. A communication being thus opened into the very heart of the Southern States, reinforcements could be forwarded, and a strong column advancing from the Southeast, and thus, dividing the South into two unequal halves, and turning back upon North Carolina and Virginia, they would sweep the rebels as with a net tuc the very jesse of the army on the banks of the Batter was of the army on the banks of the Batter was original place of basiness with a net tuc the very jesse of the army on the banks of the Batter was original place of basiness with a net tuc the very leave of the army on the banks of the Batter was original place of basiness with a net tuc the very leave of the army on the banks of the Batter was original place of basiness with a net tuc the very leave of the army on the banks of the Batter was original place of basiness with a net tuc the very leave of the army on the banks of the Batter was original place of basiness with a net tuc the very leave of the army on the banks of the Batter was original place of basiness with a

The Coquette.—A coquette has been defined as a woman who wants to engage the men without engaging hereelf. She is a composition of levity and vanity whose chief aim is to be thought agreeable, handsome and amiable, whether she really is so or not. A witty author compares each a woman to a line-eater, who makes a show of handings, and evec chewing live coals, without resilizing its passion.
